Mrs. Lang,

Toronto.

Dear Mrs. Lang:

I am afraid that it would be quite impossible to get an attendance of students to come to a lecture for which there would be an admission fee charged. I am always in fear and trembling when any lecturer comes to the city because audiences are so precarious. I would suggest, however, that if you were to act through the Women's Societies of the University they might arrange to sell tickets which would make the lecture a success and the Hall could be placed at their disposal.

With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.

Dear President Falconer.

I have spent some time getting up a lecture on "What Europeans have done
for the War" my intention being to save money. This booklet
